CURRENT PROJECTS

1. USMLE Step 1 Review Book. I have developed an innovative and unique system for effective preparation for the USMLE Step 1 examination by organizing an analysis of sample case vignette questions around a new side-to-side concept mapping template. This produces discussion that develops analytical abilities in students working in small, self-directed groups. There also is a carryover effect that improves student learning and performance on course exams throughout the period of review.
2. Teaching Effectiveness Workshops. Generally focused on integrative methods in large group settings. These are presented by invitation throughout the year at medical schools around the country.
3. Academic Achievement Workshops. Generally focused on integrative learning strategies. Emphasizes active learning and self-directed, problem oriented team learning. These are presented by invitation throughout the year at medical schools around the country.
4. SuccessTypes Medical Education website. Updated to include free access to SuccessTypes in Medical Education book. Links to useful readings in medical education as well as links for counselors working with at-risk medical students.
