Sedation and Analgesia-Primary Care

1. Describe the primary difference between deep sedation and general anesthesia.

2. Describe the necessary skills needed of personnel who provide deep sedation.

3. Provide ASA classification for the following patient:

4. Why would the end of the procedure pose a high risk for sedation complications?

5. Describe the problems related to sedation with chloral hydrate.

6. Describe the properties of ketamine and the advantages of using it for painful procedures.