TEXAS TECH UNIVERSITY HEALTH SCIENCE CENTER REGIONAL DEAN ELECTED SECTION CHAIR OF AMERICAN COLLEGE OF OBSTETRICS AND GYNECOLOGY

John Jennings, M.D., regional dean of Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center at the Permian Basin, was elected chair of the Texas section of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology (ACOG).

As chair, Jennings will represent the Texas membership of more than 3,000 Texas physicians during his term that extends through August 2010.

ACOG has more than 49,000 members and is the nation's leading group of professionals providing health care for women. It is a private, voluntary, nonprofit membership organization.
