NURSE PRACTITIONER, ALUMNI PRECEPTOR APPRECIATION DINNER

WHAT: The Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center (TTUHSC) School of Nursing Nurse Practitioner Alumni and Preceptor Appreciation Reception.

WHEN: 5:15 p.m. Thursday (March 3)

WHERE: Merket Alumni Center, 17th Street and University Avenue

EVENT: The TTUHSC School of Nursing’s Nurse Practitioner Program began in 1988 with the creation of the Family Nurse Practitioner educational track. Additional tracks are now available in pediatric, geriatric and acute care. In 2008, 53 nurse practitioners graduated from the TTUHSC School of Nursing. A projected 106 are expected to graduate this year.

A nurse practitioner is a master’s prepared nurse who assumes a primary care or acute care provider role in rural agencies and other health care settings. Preceptors teach students by offering guidance, support and experience.
