So it's been 20 years since the Texas Tech Health Sciences Center has hosted the Board of Regents for the Texas Tech system here in the Permian Basin. And a lot has changed in 20 years in the Permian Basin. We're excited to bring the group here from all across the state and show them the wonderful things that are happening within the School of Medicine, the School of Nursing in the School of Health Professions and the growth that has occurred.

What are some things they will get to experience while they are here?

So while the regents are here and also leadership across our entire system. We're really going to showcase some of our really exciting events around telehealth and access to health care through telehealth. We're also going to look a little bit at our innovation in the digital space what we're doing as far as expanding access to health care through digital health and really reaching out to individuals who are in rural areas and have little access to health care.
