The Helen Hodges Educational Charitable Trust was established following the death of Mrs. J. A. Hodges, a local philanthropist. It was her wish that the trust support outstanding students—both men and women in all fields of study—who either attend South Plains institutions of higher education or are from the Lubbock area.

This is the 31st year that scholarships will be given. To date, the Trust has awarded more than $650,000 in student scholarships.

Who May Apply

- Undergraduates who have completed at least 60 semester hours toward a bachelor’s degree (junior standing)
- Graduate students, including law students, medical students, and other graduate students in the nursing and health professions, etc. Please note: Students enrolled in programs that lead to graduate degrees without first awarding a bachelor’s degree are considered undergraduates for these awards.
- Students who are attending institutions in or who are from the South Plains area
