*"Don't let the song go out of your life
Though it chance sometimes to flow
In a minor strain; it will blend again
With the major tone you know.*

*What though shadows rise to obscure life's skies,
And hide for a time the sun,
The sooner they'll lift and reveal the rift,
If you let the melody run.*

*Don't let the song go out of your life;
Though the voice may have lost its trill,
Though the tremulous note may die in your throat,
Let it sing in your spirit still.*

*Don't let the song go out of your life;
Let it ring in the soul while here;
And when you go hence, 'twill follow you thence,
And live on in another sphere."*

American Medical Women's Association members were very active this year. The year began with a Get Acquainted Party in August to welcome the incoming freshmen students. At monthly meetings we addressed current issues in patient care such as "Patients' Negative Experiences with Physicians" and issues of career planning such as "Applying for and choosing a Residency."

The Texas Tech HSC School of Medicine branch was well represented at the national AMWA meeting in New York City with five representatives: Kellie Flood, Suzanne Benser, Paula Holland Price, Diane Yu and Mitzi Hendricks. Mitzi who served last year as Regional Coordinator for AMWA branches in Texas and Oklahoma, was elected National Coordinator of AMWA student membership.

In December, AMWA sponsored a Financial Planning seminar for the students and physicians of the medical school and Lubbock community. Three local professionals, an attorney, a certified financial planner and a certified public accountant, presented financial planning tips for the life cycle of the physician from medical school through retirement.

To address the difficult task of balancing the demands of our profession with important personal relationships, AMWA sponsored a special meeting with a panel of physicians who shared their personal experience and tips for developing and maintaining this important balance as our medical careers develop.

AMWA members also volunteered their time and skills to the Lubbock City Health Department and to Women's Protective Services through work in their clinics and material support.

Within an interdenominational framework and without strong religious organizational affiliation, the Christian Medical Society seeks to serve God in the service of fellow man. Membership includes persons in all areas of the medical profession.

Through weekly noon Bible studies and monthly pot luck supper fellowships, students are encouraged to build firm foundations on which to build their medical careers. The strong personal interaction within the group serves to provide support and encouragement for students when the pressures of medical school seem overwhelming.

Family Physician Student Association serves to promote Family Practice as a medical specialty. We strive to expose students to the practice of family medicine and increase student awareness of the family physician.

The monthly meetings were very successful with several speakers promoting family practice as a choice not just an alternative.

One of the highlights of the year was Family Practice Residency Day. Students were given the opportunity to meet with directors of residency programs from many cities throughout Texas.

In conjunction with the Family Practice Department, FPSA promoted the summer preceptorship program which has become one of the most successful of any medical discipline. Many students were given the opportunity to work with family practitioners and to experience first-hand the activities of today's family physician.

The Pediatric Club was organized this year in order to provide an opportunity for students to learn more about the speciality of pediatrics. Members were encouraged to attend ward rounds, spend time in the clinics, and were invited to spend a night on call with a resident.

Members also volunteered time to help with the Childrens Miracle Network Telethon and to serve as counselors for a summer diabetic camp.

Through the generosity of the Pediatric Department, weekly luncheons were organized with guest lecturers speaking on various topics in the field of Pediatrics. The department also organized a summer preceptorship program giving students an opportunity to work with a local Pediatrician.

The 1984-85 Academic year was the inaugural year of the Student Government at the Texas Tech Medical School.

During this past year, an Honor Code was created specifically for the medical students. This new code provided for student representation on the Honor Council, which under the previous University Code, only did so under the discretion of the appropriate Dean.

A speaker — leadership series was begun, with Dr. David Vanderpool of Dallas, giving the first lecture. The topic was on Medical Ethics from a clinician's viewpoint.

Also for the first time, the student government was successful in coordinating the vacation schedules at all three campuses for the students during their clinical rotations.

Student participation into the direction this medical school takes into the future has never been greater. The student government successfully lobbied for student membership onto the P.R.E.P. committees on Admissions, Evaluations, and Curriculum.

Additionally, we have pushed for our own financial independence, so that we can further the student projects for our school. An example of this is the Student Handbook of Practical Knowledge that is given to all medical students and at the beginning of their third year.

We have also created a Senior Service Award for those individuals who go the extra mile in helping others in the school, church or community.

We still have other projects that the student government is intimately concerned with. Heading the list is a permanent bookstore.

Finally, we would like to thank Drs. Chappell, Anderson, Wheeler, and Hartman for their full support into our endeavors. They have enthusiastically supported us throughout each project we have undertaken.

It is said that the surgeon is an explorer within the tropical forest of the body. He is a healing artist who yields his probe and scalpel to explore the fruits that lay untouched by any other men.

Interest in this ancient craft led to the creation of the first surgery student association. Through the cooperation and funding of the Department of Surgery, the Surgery Club was formed at Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center. Its' function and design is to promote interest in the field of surgery and provide an outlet to students to further investigate into this specialty.

Among this year's highlights have included luncheons with speakers such as Dr. Peter Canizaro, current Chairman of the Department of Surgery, and Dr. Timothy Harner, Professor of Surgery. Students also had the opportunity to learn proper scrubbing techniques, take a tour of the Operating Room, and view a video tape of suturing methods.

The Texas Association of Mexican American Medical Students is an organization formed to perform two basic functions: address the health care needs of the minority and disadvantaged people in Texas, and increase the number of minority students in allopathic and osteopathic medical schools. Pursuant to these endeavors, we try to increase awareness of medical problems unique to Hispanics, Blacks, and the disadvantaged, and help in public health education for these groups. In addition, we help guide premedical students with academic counseling and workshops on application to medical school. Our organization tries to create a supportive group of peers for hispanic and black students. We also are planning a physician-student support system, whereby physicians in the community take first and second year medical students under their wings.

This year we have had two guest presentations, "Alcoholism and the Hispanic," given by Rudy Arredondo, M.D., and "Child Abuse Recognition," given by Rafael Garcia, in conjunction with the Pediatrics Club. Marina Chavez and Michele Groark attended a premedical workshop at Pan American University in McAllen, representing both TAMAMS and Texas Tech. A weekly medical Spanish class was created by Jacqueline Bickham and Sam Kleinman for our own peers. As always, we managed to host some memorable fiestas to let off the steam from our pressure cooker environment. Some of us even learned how to do the salsa!

As always we remained active on the state level, sending representatives to three quarterly meetings. We again have elected three of our local members to state offices: President—Juan Fitz, Vice President—Manuel Garcia, and Secretary—Kellie Flood. We are also hosting the Fifth Annual TAMAMS State Convention to be held at our Regional Academic Health Center in El Paso.

The Texas Tech Chapter of the Texas Medical Association Medical Student Section actively contributed to several diverse aspects of student life during the 1984-85 school year. The chapter goals included the promotion of participation in organized medicine, the education of the student body in the legislative aspects of medical care, extending the medical knowledge of the students and community service.

Goals such as these require hard work and dedication in order to be achieved. The officers and members of the TMA at Texas Tech did just that. Chapter programming included a school-wide get-acquainted mixer, a luncheon with Dr. Ted Forsythe, President-elect of the County Medical Society speaking on "Politics in Medicine" and a luncheon panel discussion on "The Physicians Role in Child Abuse and Neglect." The membership organized and fought exorbitant increases in medical student tuition by the Texas Legislature and sponsored a Health Science Center Blood Drive. Over the course of the year, over thirty Tech students were involved in the TMA at the state level. These activities reflect the real concern which the medical students at Texas Tech have for the future of medicine.

In Remembrance of Dorothy . . .

The yearbook staff fondly dedicates the 1985 Plexus to the memory of Dorothy Newcomb who so lovingly devoted herself to her work with students, both past and present. She is remembered by all of us as the nice lady in the Admissions Office who so graciously and enthusiastically encouraged nervous medical school applicants when they called. Her personal touch, kind words and gentle smile reached everyone . . .

"Dorothy was my friend . . .

I can describe her in one word, devoted. Devoted and loving to her family; her loving pride and devotion to her two sons, Mark and Craig.

Devoted to her friends. Dorothy and I worked together for eleven years at TTUHSC. We had eaten lunch together almost daily for those many years and we all had such fun. We would tease Dorothy about all of the people that would starve if she didn't finish eating all of the food she had on her plate, or how much ice cream we could pile on those "little bitty" cups. She was like a sister to me.

Most of all, Dorothy's devotion to her career in the Admissions Office will be missed. Everyone's application was so important. Working on weekends or after five was just a part of her life and she was so happy when each applicant's dream came true.

Dorothy is missed . . . " Jane Carter, long-time friend.

"She and I were so close — even with our eleven years age difference. We had always been close, even when she was a little girl. She was such a precious, thoughtful person. I just adored her! Nothing Dorothy ever did was for personal credit or acclaim, but always because she loved people and wanted to help them. Truly, everyone who had been fortunate enough to know her, loved her . . . " Cleo Brian, sister.

*"Walk easy on the earth
Without disturbing the sand.
Let others observe your footprints,
but like night and day leave no trace.
Let your shadow move where it will,
Its magnitude decided by the sun.*

*Do not love easily but well,
Linked in spirit and flesh.
Let your love be warm and generous,
And like the sun do not measure your gift.
Let your friendship be enduring and loyal,
Even as the mountains are not displaced.*

*Let no one judge you
Beyond what you actually do.
Thus you will not be judged
By anyone harsher than yourself.
To judge another is to become blind
And delay your own passage.*

... with son Mark

... with son Craig

*Do not disturb the waters
Or race futilely against the wind.
The sun will rise every day
And the moon will follow its course.
There is a rhythm for you
As smooth and unmistakable as the tide.*

*Do not try relentlessly to understand.
Time itself will decide.
There will be stars enough
When clouds and neon lights do not hide them.
Do not be sad. It has been written for you:
Your joy will come when it is time.*

But this above all: Walk easy on the earth!"
