CELL BIOLOGY AND BIOCHEMISTRY
FACULTY SEARCH 2022-2023

The Department of Cell Biology and Biochemistry at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center in Lubbock, TX invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Associate Professor level in any area of Biochemistry, Cellular, or Molecular Biology. The department (<https://www.ttuhsc.edu/medicine/cell-biology-biochemistry/default.aspx>) currently has fifteen full-time faculty members and seeks accomplished scientists to complement existing research programs in reproductive biology, diabetes and obesity, membrane protein structure and function, development, cancer, aging and neurodegenerative diseases. We enjoy a collegial and cooperative research environment both within and between departments that is especially conducive to collaboration and scientific discourse.

Appointments will be in the School of Medicine and the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences and come with a highly competitive start-up package and state-supported salary. Applicants should have a Ph.D., and/or M.D. degree, and will be expected to participate in the research and teaching missions of the department. Only applicants with funded programs will be considered for this position. If applicants are identified with multiple grants and, in addition, with a significant track record of past grant funding, they may be considered for the rank of full professor. The Department of Cell Biology and Biochemistry is committed to diversity in education and employment, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities.
