SNAP Benefit Extension

The federal Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) was expanded as part of the federal coronavirus relief package to allow college students to more easily access the program, temporarily removing work and eligibility requirements for students. This temporary extension runs through 30 days after the public health emergency due to the coronavirus is lifted.

Now students enrolled at least half-time with a $0 estimated family contribution (EFC) or state or federal work-study eligibility can be considered (along with other qualifying requirements) for SNAP benefits.

SNAP benefits are intended to assist students who, through completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and meeting other qualifying criteria, show that they could find themselves with food insecurity.

Please visit USDA Food and Nutrition Service SNAP Students website for more information.
